HUD OFFICIAL TO VISIT TACOMA

A special assistant for the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C., will visit Tacoma on June 12.

Rich Coward, special assistant to the secretary for community planning and development, will address a meeting of the Region 10 Citizens Council board at the Tacoma Motor Hotel at 1 p.m. on June 12. Lester Mccants, regional director for citizen participation, will also attend the board meeting.

Representatives from the five Model Cities programs in the region--Tacoma, Seattle, Portland, Boise, Juneau--are expected to attend the session. The business session will probably include discussion of the proposed office and information center to be set up by the regional council in July. The council's goal is to increase citizen involvement in all levels of government.

The public is invited to the board meeting.

Senior Citizens Fair

TACOMA - Highlighting the National Senior Citizens month of May will be a SENIOR CITIZENS FAIR held all day Friday the 24th at the Tacoma Mall Shopping Center.

Senior Citizens throughout Pierce County will display many Ceramics, Handicrafts, and Paintings they have made, as well as their Hobbies and Collections. Sponsored by the American Council Senior Citizens there will be prizes and ribbon awards for the first three winners in four different categories.

Information Boothes will be manned by a number of agencies and organizations to answer first-hand any questions by seniors and their families.

The general public is invited to attend and any Senior Citizens wishing to display their wares should call Bill King 383-4380 by Thursday. Information on bus charter routes and schedules will be announced in Thursday's Tacoma News Tribune.

Rat Program Coming Back

The City Council approved contracts Tuesday for a new rat control program and for extension of the Public Defender program.

The Environmental Health program will be offering the same services as it did last year as a Model Cities project. Services include picking up trash, spraying vegitation, poisoning sewer lines, and protecting homes against rodents.

Total cost of the project is $3,770 which will allow the project to operate about six months. The program has been working citywide to decrease the rat population with a grant from the city's General Revenue Sharing Fund.

Under the Model Cities program, efforts will be concentrated in the Model Neighborhood. When the project stopped last summer, it had reduced the rat population in the Hilltop to the lowest level in the city.

The council also approved an agreement with the Tacoma-Pierce County Legal Assistance Foundation, Inc. to operate the Public Defender program through May, 1975. The funds for the year extention will come from Model Cities and state Law Enforcement Assistance Act funds.

Public Defender has been providing legal counsel and defense for persons accused of misdemeanors tried in Tacoma Municipal Courts who cannot afford a lawyer. The service is available to any low income person who is arrested or who calls the office at 572-5311.

Councilman Edward Hudson asked if the Public Defender office was making any attempt to consolidate with the county legal counsel program. Public Defender Director Hugh Fountain said that he had been talking with the county's Department of Assigned Counsel director and hoped that cooperative efforts would be tried in the future. He said that the Public Defender's contract would allow them to defend persons in District and Superior Courts if an agreement could be reached with the county and the courts.

A Dream Comes True

Rev. M.C. Connally, Jr.

Among the 82 graduates from Northwest College on May 26, 1974, in Kirkland, Washington, was the Rev. M.C. Connally, Jr.

Receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree, Rev. Connally saw a dream materialize that he had nurtured since his youth.

Born in Parris, Texas, Sept. 22, 1930, he attended Doty High School of McKinney, Texas, marrying his schoolmate and childhood sweetheart, Miss Laura Jackson (a marriage of 23 years). A retired Technical Sergeant from the Air Force, and a disabled veteran, he served overseas in Alaska, Korea, Japan, Germany, Guam, Vitenam, and Spain. During his twenty years of Military Service he served his country as well as God and his church. Rev. Connally helped to feed and clothe many children overseas as well as helped to send them to school.

He worked as a Sunday School teacher, a choir member, lay speaker, and also worked on the mission field a year in Vietnam with the Southern Baptist Missionaries. It was in Spain that he received his call into the ministry, and also where he pastored a small church of servicemen and their families. He served for four years as an associate pastor with Rev. E.S. Brazill before being called to pastor the Eastside Baptist Church. Rev. Connally says the church has been remodeled and that the church membership is growing very fast.

Obituaries

Mrs. John 'Lula' Marks

By Vertist Edwards

Life's finer treasures are all too few. One does not often develop true and lasting friendship with a person on first meeting, but my friendship with Lula Marks lasted through the years. Today, with her husband, son, relatives and other friends, I bid a final farewell.

Watching the ceremonies, I thought of the many hours we shared in joy and sorrow. In spite of her long, painful and lingering illness, she was always pleasant and ready to share in conversation. Toward the end, though often in pain, she kept abreast of events by reading books, magazines, papers and her Bible.

Her religion was personal. Therefore in making a full commitment to God, in whom she believed, my friend Lula lived a beautiful life.

Earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal. Eternal rest grant her.

Mrs. John (Lula M.) Marks, 52, of 10801 Briar Rd. SW., a retired teacher from the Du Pont School District, died Saturday.

Born in Montgomery, Ala., Mrs. Marks had lived in Tacoma since 1953. She taught at Clover Park Elementary School before going to the Du Pont School District.

She was a charter member of the Tacoma chapter of National Links, Inc., a business society, and was a member of the Clover Park Education Association.

Besides her husband, survivors include a son, Mitchell A. of Seattle; two brothers, Robert and Loftin Mitchell, both in New York; three sisters, Mrs. Virginia Dickerson and Mrs. Mildred Hall, both of Montgomery, and Mrs. Marjorie Session of Tacoma, and a grandson.

Services were held at 2 p.m. Thursday, June 6th in the Mountain View Valley Chapel, under the direction of Mountain View Funeral Home.

MEDITATION

There is one element that is worth its weight in gold and that is loyalty. It will cover a multitude of weaknesses.

Fantastic Black Facts

by Rose Marie Johnson

The United Methodist Quadrennial General Conference, meeting in Atlanta, Georgia in 1972, voted overwhelmingly to revamp the organization as well as to revive the denomination's doctrinal statements and to rewrite its statement of social principles.

The greatest structural change involved combining nine national program-agencies into four boards---Discipleship, Global Ministries, Church and Society, and Higher Education and Ministry. The thrust toward ending all structures determined by race was acellerated by the General Conferences, which decreed that no more such conferences could exist after mid-'73.

Black Conferences in several Southern states merged with their white counterparts during the year. In November the last White Conference in the nation to approve a merger plan, the North Mississippi Conference, voted to merge with the Black Upper Mississippi Conference.

Ecumenically, the year saw reaffirmation of United Methodist participation in COCU (Consultation On Church Union) and in the World and National Councils of Churches; approval for the initiation of dialogue with Jewish Communities; support for the evangelistic effort known as Key '73; an authorization for units in Sierra Leone, Costa Rica, Panama, Taiwan, and North Africa to become autonomous.

Officers of the World Methodist Council met for a consultation in Tonga at the beginning of '72. A watchnight service was attended by the King of Tonga and his entourage.

The first meeting of the newly constituted Executive Committee of the World Methodist Council presided over by Bishop Prince Taylor, (a Black) was held at Wesley College, Bristal England, at the end of August '72.

Locally, the United Methodist Pacific Northwest Conference has its first ethnic Bishop, Bishop Wilbur W.Y. Choy--Resident Bishop, Seattle Area.

Next week--Highlights on the life of Bishop Choy and local blacks in United Methodist Churches.

WHEN YOU FIND a man who knows his job and is willing to take responsibility, keep out of his way and don't bother him with unnecessary supervision. What you may think is cooperation is nothing but interference.

ROAD SERVICE

Dear Tac Vac

by Ted Jefferson

Q--Since some national cemetaries have been closed because of lack of space, will the VA pay an additional sum for veterans buried in private cemetaries?

A--Public Law 43, 93rd Congress provides a $150.00 plot allowance in addition to the maximum $250 burial benefit where the death is not service-connected and the veteran is buried in other than a national cemetary.

Q--The VA pays an annual $150 clothing allowance to service-connected disabled veterans whose prosthetic or orthopedic devices tend to wear out or tear clothing. How about veterans who wear colostomy, ileostomy or similar devices resulting from a service-connected condition? Are military retirees also eligible?

A--The clothing allowance rules have been changed by VA to allow payment to veterans who wear such devices. After the initial application, veterans on the VA compensation rolls receive the allowance automatically each year. Military retirees who do not get VA compensation must file annual claims for the clothing allowance. The allowance may be received simultaneously with retired pay, without waiving an equal amount of retired pay.

Address all questions concerning veterans to: Veterans Action Center, 1301 S. "K" St., Tacoma, Washington 98405 or 4601 Pacific Ave. TEL: 383-4008 or 474-4005.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE (HEW)

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare was established for the purpose of improving the administration of those agencies of the government, the major responsibilities of which are to promote the general welfare in the fields of health, education, and social welfare.

The Department works through institutions and State and local government toward eliminating the conditions that inhibit individual growth or impair human dignity. It seeks to enhance those capabilities that enable the individual to work and live as a free and responsible person and to strengthen those institutions which contribute to and support such individual development.

Established by the Congress in 1953, it is a grouping of the "Human Concerns" of the Federal government. The Congress since has given HEW responsibility for over 250 programs. These programs are carried out by over 100,000 employees representing more than 300 occupations and located in every State and many countries of the world.

OFFICE OF EDUCATION which is devoted to improving the quality and equality of education. Its major function is to channel Federal funds into programs developed by State education agencies, local school districts, and colleges and universities in order to enhance the quality and broaden the scope of the nation's educational system. These programs cover the educational spectrum from preschool to post-doctoral study, and from high school vocational training to continuing adult education.

SOCIAL AND REHABILITATION SERVICE which administers the programs of technical and financial support to States, local communities, other organizations and individuals in the provision of social, rehabilitation, income maintenance and other necessary services to the aged and aging, children and youth, the disabled, and families in need. The agencies providing these programs and which operate under the SRS are Rehabilitation Services, Community Services, Medical Services, Assistance Payments Services.

SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION which is responsible for the administration of the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, the Disability Insurance, the Health Insurance and the Supplemental Security Income Programs.

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE, which as the health organization of HEW, is charged with carrying out programs in bio-medical research, health service delivery, health resource development and consumer protection.

ANDREW J. YOUNG, Regional Attorney

Andy looks on his office as the legal counselor to more than 1500 HEW employees and dozens of HEW agencies in the four states of Region X — Alaska, Idaho, Oregon and Washington.

BARBARA A. TURNER, Regional Federal Women's Program Coordinator

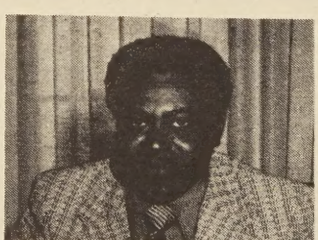
Barbara serves as an essential resource in the development of the agency's equal employment opportunity plan. Through participation in and promotion of various FWP activities she has gained valuable insight into the status of women within the agency, what problems there are and how they can best be tackled.

OZENIA WILLIAMS, Claims Representative South Branch Office, Social Security Administration

Ozenia started with Social Security in 1958 as a Claims Development Clerk, then served as a Service Representative and now serves as Claims Representative, in which job she carries out a variety of responsibilities in interviewing and assisting applicants for Social Security benefits.

LEVI S. FISHER, Regional Equal Opportunity Officer

Levi acts for the Regional Director in establishing, maintaining and carrying out the Equal Employment Opportunity functions of HEW in Region X. He also has full responsibility for the implementation and interpretation of EEO policy throughout the Region, assuring that all HEW agencies maintain the full intent of the Department's EEO policies, requirements and programs.

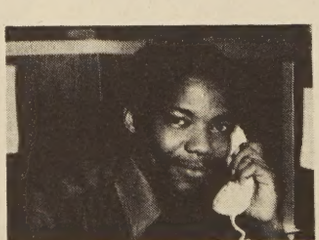


WILLIAM L. HAYDEN, Assistant Regional Director for Human Development

Bill heads up the unit which includes the following programs: Mental Retardation; current HEW Programs for Youth and Student Affairs; Youth Development and Delinquency Prevention; the Administration on Aging, and the Office of Child Development.

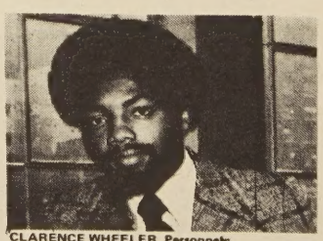
VERNA D. BUSCH, Grants Management Specialist/OCD—OHD

Verna processes, analyzes and reviews the fiscal aspects of at least 100 complex project grants in the fields of aging, youth and child development for the Office of Human Development.



TONY MOSBY, Service Representative South Branch Office, Social Security Administration

Tony came to the South Branch Office under the Veterans Readjustment Program. As a Service Representative he provides information and assistance to applicants for Social Security benefits.



CLARENCE WHEELER, Personnel Management Specialist

"As a Black Personnel Specialist, it has been frustrating to me to see the numbers of minorities who have chosen not go to into a Federal Government job merely because the starting pay in private industry might be higher. With most jobs for a college graduate in HEW offering a beginning salary range of $8055 to $9969, and, in addition, 2½ weeks of paid vacation plus 2½ weeks of paid sick leave per year, I feel we can compete for qualified minorities.

While it isn't easy to "break into" Federa Service, it is certainly possible. The Depart ment of Health, Education and Welfare i looking — we need you."

SCOUT NEWS

May 28, 1974

Ten Scouts of BSA Troop 216 recently returned from their fifth campout of the year in the foothills of the Olympic Mountains. The Troop, sponsored by McCarver PTA, practiced their camping skills during the 3-day Memorial weekend at Camp Lofton near the Olympic National Forest, between Sequim and Port Angeles.

Early Saturday, Scoutmaster Jack Payne of 2329 So. Wilkeson St. and Assistant Scoutmaster Bob Lofton and their eager Troop members headed over the Narrows Bridge to begin an interest-packed 90-mile trip north on the Olympic Peninsula. Their route took them over Kitsap Memorial Bridge crossing Hood Canal where the views of water, forests and snowy mountains made them all feel they had left their world behind for a new adventure in living. They were treated to bright patches of purple and pink flowering shrubs along miles of forested roads, which some recognized as our State Flower, the rhododendron.

Sunday, eight Scouts took a twenty-mile hike to historic Dungeness Bay and eastward along the shore toward Sequim Bay Park. Their lunch was unexpectedly enhanced by clams and oysters freshly dug along the beaches, which they roasted along with their old standby, the indispensable hotdog. This hike completed requirements for the Hiking Merit Badge for several of them. Previous hikes in the area had taken them to the Fish Hatchery and along the rugged Dungeness River.

Calling the campout a great success were the Troop's newest members, Edgar and Carl Rainey, and Russell Myers, as well as veteran campers Lawrence McFarland, Conley Richard, Jerry Mumford, Tommy and Raymond Mercer, Paul Brantley, and Pat Payne. Recalling the snow and heavy rain of earlier spring campouts and how they managed to complete their hikes despite many obstacles, they stoutly maintained their State has it all over Idaho where Jamboree temperatures hit 110° last summer. To the new Scouts, the Troop's oldtimers could only say, "You aint seen nuthin yet".

Education and Busing—On The Battlefield

Sometime this month, the full Senate is expected to take up legislation that would extend current funding of federal education programs for at least three years. The House of Representatives has already taken action on such legislation when it approved a bill to extend the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA). This is the basic federal school aid program.

In approving this measure, the House also adopted strong anti-busing amendments. Many have said that these efforts represent unconstitutional attempts to overturn Supreme Court rulings.

Civil rights organizations, particularly the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, are very much opposed to the House-approved anti-busing amendment and will fight against efforts in the Senate to pass similar measures.

As presently designed, the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA) provides nearly $3 billion in federal aid to public schools annually. The law expired June 30, 1973, but funding for its various programs will continue until June 30, 1974 under an automatic one-year extension which allows Congress to evaluate and revise various funding aspects of the program.

Congress failed to act on legislation extending ESEA last year mainly because of the President's insistence on a revenue sharing approach to future education funding.

The new bill would extend the ESEA program for three years and would:

- consolidate seven categorical aid programs (library, equipment, guidance and counseling, innovation, dropout prevention, health and nutrition, and aid to state departments of education) into two broad purpose grants
- authorize a one-year extension of the two impact aid programs.
- authorize a two-year extension of the Education for the Handicapped Act
- create a new community education program
- authorize a number of special studies including a White House Conference on Education in 1975.

After considerable arguments the final proposal provides for distribution of funds for Title I based on the number of children within the school district who are from families considered poor according to the 10 year census, plus two-thirds of those children from families receiving an income from payments under the Aid for Dependent Children Program (AFDC). Title I programs serve school children directly, for example, supplies and educational material.

All this hard work and progress in some areas may go out the back door because before passing H.R. 69 the House, by a vote of 293 to 117, tacked on an anti-busing amendment proposed by Rev. Marvin L. Esch and co-sponsored by Reps. Ford, Huber and O'Hara (all of Michigan).

The anti-busing amendment made the following provisions:

* Prohibits court-ordered or HEW-ordered busing to end segregation.

* Allows court-ordered and school desegregation plans already in effect under Title VI of the 1964 Civil Right Act to be re-opened and modified to comply with the provisions of this Act.

* Prescribes a standard definition of what constitutes a denial of equal educational opportunities, or what school segregation is in violation of the 14th Amendment. The definition excludes practices such as discrimination within classrooms, in curriculum, in assignment of teachers and in extra-curricular activities that are now considered illegal.

* Lists seven acceptable remedies (excluding busing) that could be ordered by the courts or HEW to overcome segregation.

In addition, the House, by a vote of 239-168, adopted an amendment by Rep. John M. Ashbrook (R.-Ohio) to prohibit the use of any federal money to pay for busing designed to achieve racial balance in schools.

Unfortunately an almost identical anti-busing amendment has been introduced on the Senate side by Senator Edward Gurney (R.-Fla.). The Gurney amendment flatly declares that many educational agencies have been forced to engage in "extensive transportation" of students to eliminate dual systems. The bill also says "the risks of harms created by excessive transportation are particularly great for children enrolled in the first six grades", an assertion not supported by the evidence.

We hope that the victories that have come to us over recent years will not be lost in this current assault on the Educational programs for our children. In the next few weeks the Senate will get down to business in the battle for education and busing.

Minority Federal Employment At All-Time High, Survey Shows

Minority group Americans now hold more Federal jobs and a greater proportion of the total jobs than at any previous time, the U.S. Civil Service Commission announced recently. The number of middle and upper level jobs held by minorities is also at an all-time high.

Gains for minorities have occurred despite a continuing decline in overall full-time Federal employment, the Commission said.

As of November 30, 1972, Negroes, Spanish-surnamed Americans, American Indians and Oriental Americans held 509,307 government jobs and comprised 20.0 percent of the Federal civilian work force, up from 19.5 percent or 502,752 in November 1971. During the same period, total full-time Federal employment decreased by 31,703.

Minorities showed significant gains in white collar positions. Total employment in white collar positions under the General Schedule and similar pay plans increased by 21,974 positions and minority group employment accounted for 14,982 positions or 68.2 percent of this increase. In all grade groupings under General Schedule and similar pay plans, both the number and percentage of minorities increased, indicating an accelerated movement into better paying white collar jobs.

Minority gains from 1971 by General Schedule grade groupings were as follows: GS 1–4, an increase of 5,356 jobs, up from 27.9 percent of total employment in these grades in 1971 to 28.4 percent in 1972; GS 5–8, an increase of 5,200 jobs, up from 18.8 to 19.8 percent; GS 9–11, an increase of 2,581 jobs, up from 8.9 to 9.7 percent; GS 12–13, an increase of 1,260 jobs, up from 5.2 to 5.7 percent; GS 14–15, an increase of 531 jobs, up from 4.2 to 4.9 percent; and in the top grades, GS 16–18, an increase of 54 jobs, up from 2.8 to 3.7 percent. In addition, the number of minority employees earning $26,000 or more per annum under other pay systems increased to 212, 29 more than the 1971 figure.

During the period November 1971 to 1972, the 31,703 decrease in total full-time Federal employment centered in wage system (blue collar) employment, and in the Postal Service. Postal Service employment decreased by 42,523 to 655,396 jobs, including a decrease of 8,199 jobs held by minority employees, or 19.3 percent of the total decrease. The survey showed a decrease of 12,754 jobs in wage systems employment, of which 839 (6.6 percent) were minorities. However, the proportion of jobs held by minorities in the Postal Service is up from 22.1 percent in 1971 to 22.3 percent in 1972; and under wage systems, up from 28.4 percent in 1971 to 29.0 percent in 1972, indicating a slower rate of decline for minorities than for non-minority employees under these pay plans.

Under the several blue collar pay plans which make up the Federal wage system, minority group representation was as follows: Regular nonsupervisory (31.4 percent of total employees in this category); regular leader (25.8 percent); regular supervisory (17.6 percent); nonsupervisory, production facilitating (7.2 percent); supervisory, production facilitating (2.7 percent). In blue collar jobs not yet converted to the Federal wage system, minority representation was 23.3 percent.

Tables released by the Commission reflect Government-wide employment totals as of November 30, 1972, and changes from November 30, 1971.

LINCOLN

If you graduate in June, this is what you could be doing in September.

Contrary to popular belief, good jobs aren't that hard to find these days. Not, that is, if you know where to look.

And a better place to look than today's Army you won't find. Our confidence is based on these simple facts.

One. We have more jobs to offer the Class of '74 than anyone. Military or civilian. (About 70,000 openings.)

Two. The jobs are the kind you don't usually step into right out of high school. Electronics, construction, computers, technical repair, communications and law enforcement are a few of the over 300 good, steady jobs we offer.

Three. Although the jobs we offer are considered "skilled labor," we don't require that you already possess the skill. We'll teach you everything you need to know in our training courses. (Experience will come on the job.)

Four. You choose the exact job training you want before you enlist. And, if you qualify, you'll get it. Guaranteed in writing.

That's our job offer to the Class of '74. We think it'll pay you to look into it.

After all, look what it did for the Class of '73.

Nation's First Prison College Commencement Ceremonies Held at McNeil Island

Five Mc Neil Island Penitentiary inmates received bachelor of arts degrees from Pacific Lutheran University Thursday at the nation's first prison commencement ceremony.

The graduates are the first prison inmates in the nation to have completed all requirements for a backelor's degree while behind prison walls.

Also among the members of the McNeil Class of 1974 were 30 graduates of Tacoma CommunityCollege who received associate of arts degrees, 40 general educational development(GED) high school equivalency diploma recipients and 48 vocational and apprenticeship award winners.

Confident of things to come, the printed program Thursday evening read" Annual Com - mencement".

The ceremonies culminated seven years of effort on the part of the Mc Neil students and PLU Professors. Since 1968, professors from Pacific Lutheran have made weekly trips to the Island penitentiary to teach a variety of classes which included offerings in religion, sociology, psychology, economics, communication arts, foreign languages, English, philosophy, business administration, social welfare and anthropology.

Until 1971 only religion courses were offered as the result of a cooperative effort between the PLU religion department, and McNeil Chaplain Larry Mathre. In 1972, Joe Palmquist joined the Mc Neil staff as education director and negotiated with PLU for a complete bachelors degree program. During the past two years PLU has provided five courses a semester at the penitentiary.

The Tacoma Community College associate of arts program was also begun shortly after Palmquist's arrival at Mc Neil.

At the commencement ceremony, Mc Neil warden W.H. Rauch observed, " We're living in an era of boundless pessimism. Yet I see events that make me aoptimistic. The simple fact that we're here this evening, not as keepers and kept, but as friends with respect for one another is such an event. "

PLU President Eugene Wiegman, addressing the graduates, said, "Let the cynics come to McNeil and see what is being done here. You earned this proud day and you have earned our respcet. "

Thursday's ceremony was actually the second "graduation" for the five PLU graduates. In another first, miles of red tape and a great deal of apprehension was overcome to allow the PLU graduates to leave the island to attend May 26 graduation ceremonies on the PLU campus in Tacoma.

Forest Environment Course Offered to Teachers

Educators wishing to participate in this summer's new five-day credit course entitled "Teachers and Trees: Interpreting Washington's Forest Environment," must register by June 10, course sponsors said today.

The three-credit course offers a combination of classroom instruction at Bellevue Junior High School and lecture tours "out in the woods" and at forest nursery and research facilities. It is co-sponsored by Intermediate School District 110, Central Washington State College, and the Washington Forest Protection Association.

Instruction begins with an introduction to Washington's forest types, ecology, history, displacement of forests by other land uses and forest ownership patterns. Then it advances to more detailed study of the objectives and practices of various forestland uses, including silviculture, government regulations, social benefits and economics.

Participating teachers will be assigned to develop a teaching unit using course content in their own grade levels and disciplines. Materials and resource information come with it for incorporation into school curricula.

Registrants may choose to begin the Monday-through-Friday course on July 22, July 29, August 5 or August 19. Lecturers are Patrick J. Cummins, forestry instructor, and Rawhide C. Papritz, geography instructor, both of Green River Community College.

Additional information and registration forms are available from the co-sponsors.

Adult students wishing to receive the scholarships must be enrolled in the college or vocational school or educational program of their choice by June 24.

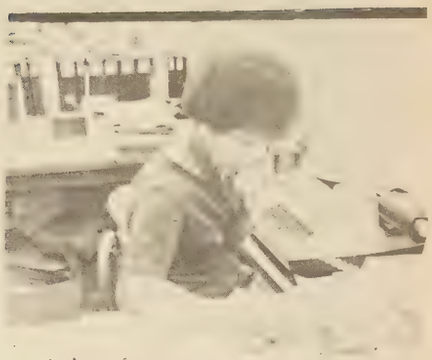
The Department of Housing and Urban Development

Ancil R. Potter, Acting Director Office of Equal Opportunity Seattle Area Office, U.S. Dept. HUD.



Barbara J. Jackson, Clerk (Typing), Office of Housing Management, Region X, U.S. Dept. HUD.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development is charged with the responsibility of administering the Government's policies and programs directed toward meeting our national housing needs. HUD administers a wide range of diversified programs which can be grouped into the following major areas: Housing Production and Mortgage Credit - FHA; Community Planning and Development; Housing Management; Equal Opportunity and Fair Housing; Research and Technology; and, Federal Disaster Assistance.

In-house careers relating to the mission of HUD include the following fields: Human Resources; Grant Specialists; Financial Analysts; Rehabilitation and Code Specialists; Urban Planners; Relocation; Intergovernment Relations; Equal Opportunity Specialists in Compliance and Enforcement and Technical Assistance; Community Services; Financial Management; Realty Specialists; Construction Analysts; Maintenance Engineering; Multi-Family Housing; Loan Specialists; Architects; General Engineering; Mortgage Credit; Low Rent Housing; Attorneys; Investigation; Auditing; and Appraisers.

Fields relating to programs and activities funded by HUD include: Construction; Real Estate; Urban Planning; Architecture; Engineering; Urban Consulting; Housing Sponsorship; Management; Housing Rehabilitation; Building Construction; Appraising; Mortgage Banking; Financing; and Insurance.

HUD addresses its responsibilities for Equal Opportunity within its own house through a comprehensive Affirmative Action Program pursuant to Executive Order 11478 and Civil Service Commission and Departmental regulations relating to in-house employment. All offices are mandated to a deliberate program of outreach, recruitment, employment, training, upgrading, promotion, and assignment and treatment of HUD personnel. The Department is consistently seeking new and progressive ideas for the furtherance of equal employment opportunity.

The Department addresses its equal opportunity responsibilities in funded programs and activities by the strict implementation of statutory requirements for employment, training and entrepreneurship in the various HUD programs, including those under Sections 3, 204, 409, 514 and 604 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968; Sections 103(a)(2) of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Act of 1966; Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964; Title VIII (Fair Housing) of the Civil Rights Act of 1968; and Executive Orders 11246 and 11063. These represent a mandate to expand employment and business resources for the housing, construction and urban development industries; and the expansion and development of new employment, training and entrepreneurial opportunities within these industries for HUD-assisted project area residents, the disadvantaged, minorities and women.

HUD is now involved in a major new thrust in Voluntary Compliance. This strategy calls for a greater awareness of the law and voluntary cooperation in its observance through new, innovative and imaginative efforts. Voluntary Compliance goals include expansion of training and job opportunities for minorities and women; equal treatment in the delivery of HUD program benefits; and expanding housing options for minorities by working for a condition in which persons of similar income levels in the same market area have a like range of housing choices available to them.

The HUD Office of Equal Opportunity oversees equal employment opportunity in the Department; non-discrimination in HUD-assisted programs; monitors equal opportunity in Federally-assisted contracts; administers the Federal law barring discrimination in housing; and promotes job opportunities and business development.

Problem Counseling Sill Available

Model Neighborhood residents can still receive counseling on personal problems from the Comprehensive Mental Health Center, even though Model Cities does not help fund the program any more.

During an open house Monday, staff from the center told visitors that anyone who needs help can find it at the center in spite of his ability to pay for expenses.

The new facility at 1202 S. K St. consolidates all of the services of the mental health center into one building.

Center staff provide a variety of services including a crisis clinic which is open 24 hours (call 383-2044). The center also operates an emergency walk-in service. Anyone who needs help can walk into the center and receive immediate help.

For help in a non-crisis situation, appointments can be made by calling 597-8233. During the open house, a tour guide said that one of the most common problems handled by the center is marital or family problems. He added that a lot of young people use the center for counseling on career, school, drug, and similar problems. The center also has a lot of former hospital patients who need prescriptions reviewed from time to time.

The clinic charges according to the individual's ability to pay. Fees are based on the income and family size. No one should worry about paying for the services, because services will be provided free to those who cannot pay.

SPORTS SCENE

SPORTS RECORD BOOK

How Soon They Forget

by Brian Jaybush

How soon they forget.

The talk of the sports town the past couple of weeks has been Dick Snyder--a man who is no longer a part of the Seattle sports scene. Snyder has been traded to a place called Cleveland... and all the Sonics got in return was a draft pick.

Perhaps if Snyder had gone to any team but Cleveland, it wouldn't have been so bad. Seattle folks know that their beloved Lenny Wilkins, when he was horrendously traded away two years ago by a gent named Tom Nissalke, was traded to Cleveland. And in that deal, at least the Sonics got a body in return-- Butch Beard, who has since departed the Sonics for Golden State. Nissalke is also gone, as you well know.

In fact, it was the demise of Tom Nissalke as Sonic coach that made it possible for Smilin' Sam Schulman to hire the great man, William F. (Bill) Russell as coach, general manager, boss-man, dictator, and all-around good-guy for the Sonics. Indeed, Schulman was so thrilled that Russell would deem to sign on with his Sonics, that he gave Russell FULL (read that absoulte) power to do what he wanted with the team.

Fan reaction in Seattle to the hiring of Russell was overwhelming.

" He'll get the team to the playoffs for sure, everyone said. And Russell himself promised almost as much; saying only,

" I won't promise you a chamiponship the first year. That'd spoil you."

The fans poured out in droves to see the Sonic play. Even when the Sonics played badly,... which they did quite often. Often enough that they didn't make the playoffs after all. In fact for the first half of the year, the Sonics were plain lousy.

But Bill Russell was in control, the fans said. He knows what to do. He just put too much hope in the talent he had. A few trades, and things'll be OK.

Russell had indeed put too much hope in the talent he had. Oh, there were good players--Spencer Haywood, Snyder, Jim Fox, and one or two others--but the trouble was, there was not enough to go around. And worst of all, there was no Big Man, a huge(tall)center who could, if not dominate the league, at least stand off the other Big Men who DO dominate the league.

Russell saw that, indeed, he had to make a trade. There was no other choice. But, who would he trade? ? Here again there was no choice. Whenever he picked up the phone to another team and said,

"Trade", they said back, "Haywood or Snyder".

Obviously,Haywood stays. So there was no choice left but for Snyder to be traded. And the only way to get a Big Man for the team was to get a high draft choice and draft one.

Cleveland has a high draft pick, and they wanted Snyder. The trade was made. Seattle picked a Big Man in the draft, Tom Burleson, who will probably sign with the Sonics this week.

And how did the fans react? After all, they wanted a trade. Some comments heard on a radio poll: "Get rid of Russell!" "What does he think he's doing, trading Snyder? Get rid of the coach!" And the unkindest cut of all:

" Remember Jim Mc Daniels? Get rid of Russell!" (It just so happens that Russell had no part in bringing Mc Daniels, a multi-million dollar non-player to the Sonics--indeed, Russell was the one who finally cut Mc Daniles from the team).

So now the coach is under fire for doing what the fans wanted--making the trade to get the team into the playoffs. And the fans are irate because he did it. At least, right now they are irate. They've forgotten how they all loved Russell just one year ago, how he was going to be the one to "turn the team around".

But I suspect, somehow that, if Burleson is as good as Russell thinks, the fans will soon forget to be mad at Russell and love him again. Seattle fans are so forgetful.

IT'S NICE TO HAVE the highest living standard in the world.

Too bad we can't afford it.
